

SINODA™ DEVICE

As a firefighter and paramedic, I understand the challenges of treating and transporting patients who require both supplemental oxygen and nebulized medication.

The SINODA™ provides a practical solution by allowing these therapies to be delivered simultaneously while the patient is being transported to the hospital.

Its compact, simple, and versatile design could be especially valuable in emergency situations where time, space, and equipment are limited.

By reducing the need to switch between oxygen-delivery devices and nebulizer treatments, the SINODA™ helps emergency medical personnel provide more efficient and uninterrupted respiratory care.

I believe the SINODA™ would be a valuable addition to emergency response and transport equipment and highly recommend its consideration for prehospital use.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Eric Hallas', written over the word 'Sincerely,'.

Eric Hallas

Firefighter/Paramedic